What I didn't have was a hidden file in the font package. I originally thought I had to have the font in order to get the embedded font settings but in fact it was the invisible file. Solution: I downloaded the correct font at www.peachpit.com/aspftp.asp I unzipped the font package and I discovered a.tff file named invisible in the Advanced folder. I deleted the invisible file.tff and unzipped the font again, this time found the embedded settings. I was able to save this font for use in several programs by right clicking on the font and selecting Open with Tab Options and selecting Smb Advance in the tab. A: It seems that the font isn't embedded in your document; in order to do so you need to use this Import Settings in Word (It will open the options dialogue window so you can customize your new fonts). A Russian caicos shtick is on the comeback trail. Earlier this month, a Russian tourist couple posted a photo on Instagram of the walls of St. Petersburg adorned with a beautiful mural of craggy cliffs, huge boulders, spectacular photosque waterfalls, and colorful tropical fish swimming through a colorful coral reef. The photo was posted just a few weeks ago, but it's now going viral all over the web. The couple wrote it was painted by Dmitriy Sholokh. Sholokh has been working as a carpenter for the past two decades and a key organizer for a group of Russian boulderers who call themselves the Chaos Crew. At the last Chaos Crew event, which was held in St. Petersburg in early June, Sholokh and his friends showed their art off. Russian national bouldering champion, Alexei Sergeev, said of Sholokh's spectacular artwork: "Sholokh is a very talented artist, besides being a great guy with a great sense of humor." After the photo was posted, it gained more than 46,000 likes and was shared around the world. Sholokh, the Chaos Crew, and St. f678ea9f9e
